PASTOR'S NOTE

getting to that vision. Getting back to the basics, getting back to who we really are meant to be, getting back to me without all the stuff that seems so often to get in the way. I can be a better me and the new start of a year can help get me centered again to let go of the stuff in the past and push with renewed energy to something that may yet be just as good or even better in the future not just for me but me being a better person for others. Getting to a more full picture and realization of who I am is a big part of New Year's Resolutions and even the idea of getting a clean start for the year.

Getting re-centered, getting back in touch with the basics, taking one more step toward becoming what God intends us to be is part of our congregational journey as well. Not because we are in need of an overhaul but just because the new year gives us incentive to come back again at that ongoing cycle once more – just as we have done in the past. But what is that exactly?

Many writers have said that we are not human beings having a spiritual experience, we are spiritual beings having a human experience. I believe this is true. The core of our being, the reflected image of who God is inherent in our human being-ness. To continue time and again to get back on track or get in touch with ourselves and our reason for being means we get back in touch with God. We take some time to do Sabbath work – to be re-centered in our spirit.

Indeed researchers are reminding us that in most church growth experiences – whether defined numerically or spiritually, measure – a congregations first experiences or is launched by a sense of a renewal, a revitalization of its spiritual life. This means that at a personal and corporate level there is a renewed interest in and an awareness of the ongoing presence and pervasiveness of God in our midst and in relationship with us – truly the Christmas Emmanuel (God with us) nature of the divine. When we take time to be back in touch, be intentionally cultivating the relationship with God through God's Spirit, Word, Sacraments, community, study, prayer and practices we open the pathways within us for God to inspire and enthuse us with God's presence, providence and sense of promise. This is where we gain & renew our sense of identity. This is where our spirits are reminded of who we are and who's we are. This is where we find renewed perspective and courage to move forward to what seems next in our lives of faith.

Our entire first few months of 2012 will be spent focusing a bit more on the spiritual dimension of our life together. In January there will be another series of bible studies (spring boarding from our stewardship emphasis) on Wednesday evenings in addition to our regular bible studies, there will be a focus during Lent on an aspect of our Spirituality, there may be occasions when small groups gather once again as Care Clusters are revisited as they were in the past for Christian nurture, support, and growth. LCR has had such a significant past, joining with one another and the community. It has demonstrated its love of God and neighbor. It has shown its faithfulness in how it goes about its ministry. Let us as a church family and as individuals take some time to be renewed and refreshed at our spiritual center and heart as we seek to discover the new and ongoing ways in which God may be calling us forward into this new year.

See you in church,

Pr. Dave

CIRCLE NEWS, FELLOWSHIP, FAIR TRADE

ESTHER CIRCLE

Esther Circle will meet at 6:30 on Wednesday, January 11th at Nikos Restaurant in Oldsmar. All ladies are welcome to join us. For additional information, please contact Gertrude Baskerville.

FAIR TRADE COFFEE & TEA; LUTHERAN WORLD RELIEF MISSION

Psalm 96:10-13. The Lord reigns... Let the heavens rejoice, let the earth be glad, let the seas resound and all that is in it; let the fields be jubilant, and everything in them. Then all the trees of the forest will sing for joy, they will sing before the Lord for he comes, he comes to judge the earth.

We hear every day about different factors which are increasingly impacting our environment detrimentally. Carbon dioxide, pesticides, fertilizers and pollution are just a few of the challenges facing our world.

The Fair Trade Alternative!

In order to become Fair Trade Certified, all farmers must follow stringent procedures and take important steps to improve the environment such as: elimination or regulation of dangerous pesticides and harmful chemicals, implementation of waste management practices that protect watersheds and other vulnerable clean water sources, and the protection of virgin forests by prohibiting deforestation and encouraging shade-growing practices that maintain the integrity of natural habitat.

Help the Fair Trade farmers keep improving the environment! Won't you join the Women of the ELCA's mission to FILL JUSTICE TO THE BRIM!...by purchasing fairly traded coffee and tea? For more information or special orders, contact Karen Graves at (789-4383).

MARY MARTHA CIRCLE

Mary Martha Circle will meet at 1:00 on Tuesday, January 17th in the Jenner Room. All ladies are welcome to join us. For additional information, please contact Lucy Gorder.

MEN'S NIGHT OUT

Men's Night Out will be Tuesday, January 10th at 6:30 PM. at the Fox Hollow Country Club (10020th Robert Trent Jones Parkway, Trinity). All men of LCR are welcome as we gather for a casual social dinner and fellowship. Please plan to attend and call Ed Bartz if you have any questions. A sign up sheet is posted on the bulletin board in the gathering area.

LADIES NIGHT OUT

Ladies Night Out will be Tuesday, January 31st at 6:30 PM. Watch the bulletins for this month's location. A signup sheet will be posted in the gathering area. All women of LCR are invited to attend!

SEW 'N SEWS

Mission Statement: With inspiration from the Holy Spirit the Sew 'n Sews put their faith into action by making quilts that provide comfort, warmth, joy and security to human need both locally and abroad.

To all the ladies who have returned for the winter months, welcome back! This year we will be making lap robes and infant/toddler size quilts. All women of the church are invited to become part of this wonderful group and share your talents. No sewing experience is necessary...all hands are welcome and needed to help us cut, design, pin and tie. Please join us in Fellowship Hall from 12:30 - 3:00 p.m. on the 2nd and 4th Tuesday of each month.

BIBLE STUDY

" My soul magnifies the Lord! My heart with gladness overflows. I rejoice in Him!" The words of the cantata not only ring out the message of the season but the whole year. What a joy to feel the energy, the Spirit flowing through our community of believers! If we feel this way, can you imagine how the first believers felt?! The Holy Spirit came " like the rush of violent wind"(Acts 2:2). The new converts " devoted themselves to the apostles teaching and fellowship, the breaking of bread and the prayers"(2:42). Bible study now takes us on the adventure in those early years of the church in the Book of Acts! Come join and grow in His love! Experience the joy!

CONTEMPORARY WORSHIP PLANNING TEAM NEWS

The contemporary worship planning team would like to encourage you to provide us with feedback regarding any concerns regarding the contemporary worship. We have been using a new online subscription offered by Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Burnsville, MN to assist us with the worship service planning and we would like to have your input. This new subscription also has take home devotional resources available if you are interested, please let us know and we can have them available each week as well. We are still looking at ways to incorporate more current contemporary music. Please be patient as we explore new avenues. We will keep you informed of any possible resources and ask for your feedback as we contemplate what is best for our congregation.

One of the avenues that we are exploring, that would help enhance the contemporary worship is to add projection. It could allow us to use worship DVDs that would assist in the learning process of more current contemporary music, it could cut down on printed materials, it could provide a visual aid for announcements, or to list the shut-ins, or it could provide a visual aid for the main ideas of the sermon notes! The possibilities are endless! Of course we are only gathering information and getting quotes at this time. Thank you to Donna Setzer for setting up appointments and gathering the quotes on this research! The companies were informed that there were concerns that we keep the sanctity of the sanctuary intact. We are looking forward to hearing their ideas! Another avenue we have not yet explored is a midi keyboard. This too could add new dimension to our worship, but more to come on that.

It is our goal to plan the worship services ahead 6 months. We are currently planning services to the end of April! If you have ideas for special worship services that you have experienced at LCR in the past, at other churches, or you have heard about, please let us know. We are all unique and special as created by God, which means we are all inspired in many different ways. If something speaks to your heart, it may do the same for others!

God's Peace, Kim Feeney CWPT Chair
 CWPT members: Kim & Anthony Feeney, Bruce Linton, Suzanne Lomascolo, Fremont Ogle, Dale Parish, Liz Runkle, Donna Setzer, Darlene Tuggle, Pastor Dave and Pastor Vetter.

STEWARDSHIP: LIVE A GOD-PLEASING LIFE!

The Stewardship Program is Here!

Stewards living a God-pleasing life are managers of all of God's creation. As owner, God has called us to be responsible as we fulfill the role for which we have been created, to do his will as long as we remain on earth. "For we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do" (Ephesians 2:10).

We are not given these responsibilities because of our great talents and abilities. On the contrary, we often feel inadequate and unprepared for the tasks God places before us. Our strength is in the Lord. The Apostle Paul made that point very clear as he gave praise to God for his power within us: "Now to him who is able to do immeasurably more than all we ask or imagine, according to his power that is at work within us, to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus throughout all generations, for ever and ever! Amen" (Ephesians 3:20-21). As stewards living a God-pleasing life, we welcome our opportunities for stewardship and give all the glory to God.

This month we will be studying the series: "Live a God-Pleasing Life!" in our worship services and Bible study hours. We will discuss faith as the foundation for stewardship, for it is only through faith that we can please God. We will delve into the important role that discipleship holds in our lives as obedient stewards. We will study the Scriptures to learn how generosity is the hallmark of grateful stewards responding to the love and generosity of God. Our stewardship program emphasizes the grace of God who has called us to faith and continues to sustain us. Let the words of the writer to the Hebrews be our prayer:

"May the God of peace . . . equip you with everything good for doing his will, and may he work in us what is pleasing to him, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen" (Hebrews 13:20, 21).

Please make every effort to attend both the worship services and the Bible studies during these three Sundays. May God give you the grace to continue the faithful stewardship of the many blessings that he has entrusted to your care.

Your Stewardship Team

CHURCH COUNCIL UPDATE

LCR Family,

Hope you all had a Very Merry Christmas and were able to spend time with family and friends and of course, focused on the special gift of the season, the baby Jesus.

A wonderful gift we have in our choir – thank you for the great performance they gave us, what a fun way to start of the Christmas week festivities. Then, following up with the youth and Sunday School program that night – so much energy at LCR. The work day crew who spruced up the place. And let us not forget all the extra hands and volunteers it takes to set everything up for our moving Christmas services.

What a benevolent, caring “family” we are through our gifts to FEAST, Harbinger House, youth silent auction and the gifts that we give through our benevolence so the ELCA can share with the church worldwide. This past year ended up with our giving coming close to our spending plan projection, thanks to the generosity of you, our members. The council has worked hard to make the “tithing” donation to benevolence that the congregation voted on several years ago. At times, having to borrow from other designated funds because of lower than anticipated offerings. Please be prayerful of your offerings so that we at LCR can grow our ministry as well as help with Lutheran Church worldwide grow too.

The Transition Task Team is busy making plans for a prayer vigil to be held on January 6th, Epiphany. This will be a great opportunity for all of us to gather (from 4:00 p.m. – 11:00 p.m.) as your schedules allow, and combine our prayers and thoughts for the future of LCR. We are coming up on the two year mark of our transition process with October 2012 as the 30 month goal for having all the processes completed and being able to go to the bishop with a request to call our next Senior Pastor. As one body, working together, we know this can be accomplished – please join us for the prayer vigil.

Property Committee is working hard, but with a 30 year old building, there are many areas that are needing some attention. Watch for information that will be coming out of “needs” that you may have the talents, or resources to help with.

Remember some very important upcoming dates:

Prayer Vigil on Epiphany, January 6th.

Annual Church meeting, January 29th, following a potluck dinner.

Souper and Super bowl celebrations, February 5th

Wishing you all a very Happy 2012,
Karen Gilbert
Council President

MISSION TRANSITION: THE PROCESS OF DISCERNMENT

Discernment. It's a word we've heard a lot lately. Discernment is part of the transition process we're working through, an important part. The following is the second excerpt on Transition from the Transition manual:

The Church lived its life as a life of discernment. And as a result, "Living in the fear of the Lord and in the comfort of the Holy Spirit, the church increased in numbers" (Acts 9.31).

How did the Spirit lead? How was God's will known? From Acts we see the Spirit coming to both individuals (11.12) and groups (2.1-4; 21.4). In Acts, the Spirit comes during worship and fasting (13.2), during prayer (10.9-16), in answered prayer (10.31), during the preaching of God's word (10.44), at baptism (19.1-6), in the laying of hands (8.14-17), in visions (9.10-12; 10.3-6), as a voice heard (8.29; 10.19), as an insight (11.28), as a matter of reading the signs and interpreting events (11.1-18; 16.6-7; 20.22-23), and as reported above, within group processes of deliberation and conversation (Acts 11 and 15). As it was for these first Christians, so it is for those in the Church today, whether seeking God's vision and will for ministry or seeking a pastor for that ministry. And just as God came to a variety of members in a variety of ways, so also the Spirit will continue to come to those who believe and trust in God and listen for God's voice.

Some Basics about Discernment

Through Holy Scripture and faith experience, all Christians have come to realize that knowing and doing God's will is the best possible thing that can happen to them. And so Christians pray to God frequently, even daily, "Your kingdom come, your will be done," as Jesus taught in the Lord's Prayer. While realizing that the Spirit will come and lead as the Spirit chooses, Christians over the centuries have come to know that there are some basics that can help in the discernment process:

1. Knowing our identity and calling will provide a foundation for being open to the Spirit's leading. We are Christians, called into relationship with God and fellow believers and living in the unity of Spirit by the grace of Jesus Christ. Our identity and name not only says who we are, but whose we are as well. We are Christ's, and therefore children of God.
2. Knowing our mission and purpose will also provide grounding and focus for the task of calling a pastor. The preparing of the Congregational Ministry Site Profile will help to detail both this congregation's identity and purpose.
3. Shedding is a most important step for the success of discernment. The goal of discernment is to seek God's will, not the will of any one person or group. Therefore shedding occurs in faith and trust and asks each participant to lay aside those things that would hinder the following of the Spirit's leading. Shedding does not mean leaving behind one's gifts, but rather allowing those gifts to be used by the Spirit. Shedding leaves behind personal gain or agenda for the sake of God's will and the common good.
4. Rooting is important to discernment as it connects everyone with the word and activity of God. Rooting asks, "How does the Bible inform us regarding our mission and ministry and the calling of a pastor and shepherd? How does our tradition and history also inform us?" Rooting connects us with God and God's work among us at the beginning of our task.

5. Listening is a premium in discerning God's will. Listening hears the prompting of the Spirit, as well as the voices of all in the discerning community. Listening hears those who might be affected by decisions made. God will speak through these voices. But in order to hear them, one's own voice may need to be silent more than heard. Listening is not confined simply to call-related meetings and conversations. As was witnessed above in the book of Acts, the Spirit came at many times and in many ways and to many people, even at unexpected times. Therefore a whole posture of listening becomes important during the discernment and call process – in worship, in prayer, in conversation, in deliberation, in private devotions, in group Bible study, in preaching and teaching. Listening is a premium in discerning the leading of the Spirit.

6. Exploring is what will occur within the call process itself, especially at the time of the interviews by the Call Committee, the council and eventually the congregation. Exploring is how Christians come to know God's leading and includes sorting through options. As exemplified in Acts 6, exploring goes beyond skills and gifts to seek the spiritual. During an interview, exploring will ask, "Is the Spirit clearly evident in this candidate? Is this pastor's inner call and personal faith evident as well? Is the hand of God evident in the life and past ministry of this candidate? Is the Spirit leading this candidate to minister in this congregation and setting?"

7. Weighing is what comes after the interviews. In addition to the normal positives and negatives, pros and cons, that are identified, the Call Committee, the council and congregation seeks foremost to know what comes from God. What here leads toward God and not away from God? What is filled with human novelty or invention? Does the Spirit seem to rest on a particular individual or path? Weighing is not about democratic practice. Weighing is the spiritual process of identifying the Spirit's leading.

8. Deciding moves the process to the final test: is this choice the choice of God? Ignatius of Loyola, who founded the monastic order of the Society of Jesus in the 16th century and wrote a great deal about discernment, suggested that a decision based upon discernment will be filled with one of two things. Either it will be filled with consolation and movement toward God, assisting in loving God more. Or it will be filled with desolation and movement away from God, pulling people toward things that are other than godly. Leaders of the congregation might ask the interim pastor to lead a study of the book of Acts during the early part of the interim period.

In the end, the goal of discernment and the goal of the Call Process will be much as it was for those first Christians in the book of Acts. A Call Committee, council and congregation will want to be able to say, "It seemed good to the Holy Spirit and to us..."

PASTOR'S NOTE

Each year as we approach a new year there are an abundance of newspaper and TV reports on the events of the past year. One article was a 100 times better than any of those. It went back 100 years to give a report on what life was like then. It listed some interesting facts. The average life expectancy for men was 47 years. Only 14 percent of homes had a bathtub. Only 8 percent of homes had a telephone. There were only 8,000 cars and only 144 miles of paved roads. The average US wage was 22 cents an hour. More than 95 percent of all births took place at home. Ninety percent of all doctors had no college education. Instead, they attended so-called medical schools, many of which the government considered substandard. Coffee was fifteen cents a pound. Two out of every 10 adults couldn't read nor write and only 6 percent had graduated from high school.

The challenge at the end of that information was to try to imagine what life will be like after another one hundred years. Considering the great changes in the last one hundred and even in the last fifty, I can't imagine what it will be like one hundred years from now.

What I do know is that many good things happened over the last one hundred years. Life expectancy at birth now is nearly 78 years. Most people can take a bath in their own home. Florida minimum wage next year will be $7.67. Doctors are well educated and there are many specialists. There are many new life saving techniques now in the area of medicine. We can travel on Interstate highways across the country. Higher prices for coffee and other items is a mixed bag.

The next 100 years is unimaginable to me. Almost in my life time we have gone from a few minutes flight at Kitty Hawk to probes into outer space that take years of travel to get there. Computer technology has developed more gadgets and communications opportunities that I wouldn't have imagined only fifty years ago.

The issue to me is; what is our role today in all of this? We don't know what role our children, grandchildren and even great grandchildren will play in the future. Part of that depends on the legacy we leave them including spiritually as well as ethically. Over the past 100 years our morality never seemed to keep pace with our technological advances. That is where we can have some control over the future. We can instill in the youth in our families a moral and spiritual foundation. In our Lutheran tradition, that is proclaimed at the time of Baptism when parents are reminded that they are to provide the basics of the faith to their children and sponsors are to help with that (as are grandparents) and the congregation is to provide opportunity for that. We have the very serious responsibility of passing on the faith in God that was initiated by God and passed on for generation after generation far more than just one hundred years. It is not the responsibility of schools nor of government. It is our responsibility as the church to provide the opportunity and as parents to have our children participate regularly in those opportunities as well as to pass on the faith in our family activities.

That would add a most significant element to whatever happens over the next 100 years. If you are prone to making New Year's resolutions, you might try reading chapters five through seven of the Gospel according to Matthew as a foundation for them.

May the coming year find you open to God's blessings.

Pastor Vetter
